June 15th is National Lobster Day and if you consider yourself even a bit of a seafood aficionado, then this is one day you'll want to be sure to celebrate! Lobster is, by far, one of the most decadent and delicious seafood items, and we've compiled some of the best places in San Diego to indulge this Friday.

The Gaslamp District's iconic barleymash, which celebrates the richness of American culture through progressive bar fare, boasts an appetizing menu of salads, flatbreads and burgers, among other tasty items. For National Lobster Day, opt for the Surf N' Turf burger, consisting of a grilled beef patty, cream cheese, anejo tequila n' butter-poached Maine lobster meat, baby arugula, whiskey-caramelized onions and white truffle aioli. The combination of flavors served between a homemade barley-beer bun (with a side of fries) will surely make your mouth water as soon as you take your first bite.

Point Loma Fish Shop, on the corner of Rosecrans and Cañon Street, takes pride offering locals and visitors the freshest fish dishes in the area. It's easy to see why diners have gotten hooked on Fish Shop, which also has locations in Pacific Beach and Encinitas, with their build-your-own meal concept. On Friday, grab a spot on the patio and order the Slipper Lobster Tacos, served on your choice of flour or corn tortillas and topped with shredded cabbage, pico de gallo, mixed cheeses and house cilantro white sauce.

Pacific Beach's most talked about new restaurant and bar, Waterbar, offers guests panoramic ocean views, innovative libations and a "social seafood" menu inspired by East and West Coast, and Baja cuisines.

Unique renditions of coastal classics, like the Lobster Roll made with Maine lobster, butter lettuce, esquites sauce and roasted corn, fill the menu. The energetic atmosphere will not only draw you in but will also guarantee an unforgettably satisfying experience – especially on National Lobster Day!

Chic and sophisticated, Greystone is a prime steakhouse and seafood dining spot with world class cuisine and an award-winning wine list. The Gaslamp District family-owned restaurant serves wild game plates, hand-cut wagyu, farm-to-fork salads and seafood dishes sure to impress lobster lovers across the city. Tantalize your taste buds with the Lobster Spaghetti Diavolo, a half-pound of Maine lobster, calamari and shrimp, sprinkled with shaved garlic, mint and chili flakes. This dish is definitely one worth celebrating on June 15th.

Pacific Beach Shore Club, just steps from the sand in PB, is a classic beach bar offering cold drinks, delicious eats and ocean-front views from anywhere you sit or stand. Snag a spot on the patio and soak up the sun, while enjoying a light lunch or dinner. While known for their tasty tacos, Shore Club also offers savory salads, such as the Arugula Salad, which can be topped with meat for added protein and flavor. The combo of arugula, fresh raspberries, caramelized onions, goat cheese and slipper lobster bites, drizzled with raspberry vinaigrette can't be beat!

If you're looking to get a little fancy for National Lobster Day, Osetra Seafood & Steaks has plenty of palate pleasing seafood plates available on their dinner menu. Don't make reservations at the Gaslamp District restaurant without planning to order the homemade Maine Lobster Ravioli, which comes smothered in creamy vodka sauce and a touch of pesto. Osetra also lists a Lobster Mashed Potato side dish, which can tastefully accompany any meal you choose. Pair with a smooth glass of merlot or chardonnay and you've got yourself the perfect celebratory meal.
